SIGNALS AND WHAT TO DO WITH THEM

OBSERVABLE	WHAT TO DO WITH IT
"100% on the offense" [13];	Show a result she can see this year.
"ask for the business" [15]; you offer meeting-prep tools [16]	Bankers know each client's priorities.
Expenses to outpace revenue [17]	Make the result measurable.

MEETING APPROACH

WHAT THE RECORD SHOWS	YOUR MOVE
Pace and control: "the bar is raised" [15]	Lead with the outcome in one sentence; they decide fast and dislike preamble.
Appetite for detail: "up 23%" [7]	Headline, two proof points, a source on request.
Appetite for risk: will "lean in" [18]	Pair the upside with the safeguard in the same sentence.
How they keep score: "best in a decade" [2]	One peer reference is useful; more is noise.

MEETING SCRIPT

Facts select the moves; read the room, never the record · Jane Fraser, Citigroup · Prepared Oct 14, 2026

1. OPEN

- Hook: Congratulations on the best third-quarter revenue in a decade [2]. You told staff you are judged on results [5], so I want to ask how client meetings get judged.
- Credibility: I run Talyx, which builds meeting-prep tools for executive teams; a win today is thirty minutes, not a contract [16].
- Insight: every Citigold referral is a first meeting, and referrals are up 23% [7].
- Rule: hold her pace: one sentence on the outcome, then a question; no deck.

2. QUESTION ORDER

- Story: You expect to exceed this year's return target [4]; what would you reinvest in first?
- Process: Citigold referrals are up 23% [7]; who prepares the banker for each referral meeting?
- Gate: Remaining consent order work centers on data governance [8]; how does that shape new vendors?
- History: Nearly nine in ten Citi people use AI tools [6]; which client-facing teams still lack them?
- Commitment: You told staff "we are not graded on effort" [5]; how do you judge client meetings today?

3. OBJECTIONS: NAME IT, THEN ANSWER

- Their likely objection: "Nine in ten of our people already use AI tools [6]." Agreed; I am asking only about the client meeting itself: who prepares the banker, and how fast?
- Their likely objection: "Data governance comes first [8]." Understood; I ask for no decision, only thirty minutes to learn what your data test is.
- Their likely objection: "Expenses must not outrun revenue [17]." Then we measure it as a result: banker time saved per client meeting, agreed before any spend.

4. CLOSE

- Restate: ask what would make a second meeting an easy yes, then say it back in her words.
- Real deadline: none found; she expects to exceed this year's return target [4], so ask what she would fund before year end.
- The ask: 30 minutes with the owner of AI tools for client-facing bankers, within four weeks · Fallback: an introduction to that person.
- Follow-up: the one-page sample prep brief, within 24 hours.

5. READ THE ROOM (WATCH, DO NOT ASSUME)

- Fast, wants the answer: lead with the outcome in one sentence [13].
- Asks for terms and data: headline, two proof points, a source on request [7].
- Talks about people: ask who owns the decision and who else weighs in [8].
- Big picture, ideas: tie it to her "long game" [13], and pair upside with a safeguard [18].

6. IF IT STALLS

- The move: ask which Citigold referral meetings she would judge by [7].
- The move: return to her words, "ask for the business" [15], and offer the sample brief.

7. GUARDRAILS

- Rule: never promise results at Citi, and never comment on when regulators will lift the orders [14].
- Never say: "Does that make sense?"; "Is this helpful?"; "No pressure"; "You'd know better than me"; "Just checking in".

Next step: send the sample brief and a 30-minute request by Oct 16, 2026.
