MEETING SCRIPT

Facts select the moves; read the room, never the record · Satya Nadella, Microsoft · Prepared Oct 14, 2026

1. OPEN

- Hook: You said Microsoft is turning tokens into business results [2]. I want to ask what that looks like for Microsoft's own executives.
- Credibility: Talyx builds AI meeting-prep and knowledge tools for executive teams [11].
- Insight: Azure passed $100 billion [3] and capacity built in 15 months beat the first 15 years [6]; executive preparation is the open question.
- Rule: after the hook, ask and stop; let him fill the silence.

2. QUESTION ORDER

- Story: When Nadella says tokens into business results, what does that look like for Microsoft's own executive teams [2]?
- Process: Whose evals would govern a briefing tool at Microsoft?
- Gate: Who at Microsoft owns the decision on a new tool for executive teams?
- History: Azure built more capacity in 15 months than in 15 years [6]; how are executives keeping pace?
- Commitment: What would make a second 30-minute conversation worth his time?

3. OBJECTIONS: NAME IT, THEN ANSWER

- Their likely objection: "Microsoft builds this itself." Probably true for the platform; we start with one executive team's meetings, which a platform rarely covers [5].
- Their likely objection: "Leaders must commit to AI, not side tools." Then the test is cost per meeting, in line with tokens into business results [12].
- Their likely objection: "We are reorganizing jobs, not adding tools." Briefed executives free time for that work [10].

4. CLOSE

- Restate: ask what would make it an easy yes, then say it back in his words.
- Real deadline: none found; Azure's July 30, 2026 result is context, not a deadline [3].
- The ask: 30 minutes with him or whoever owns executive tooling, within a month · Fallback: a named person at Microsoft to talk to.
- Follow-up: a one-page example of a briefed executive team, within two days.

Next step: send the one-page example by Oct 17, 2026.

5. IF IT STALLS

- The move: return to his line on every customer turning tokens into results [2] and ask for one example.
- The move: ask who leads the weekly AI accelerator meetings [9].

6. GUARDRAILS

- Rule: promise no Microsoft integration or result; make no claims about Microsoft's plans; US posture.
- Never say: "Does that make sense?"; "Is this helpful?"; "No pressure"; "You'd know better than me"; "Just checking in".
